ACCEPTANCE OF THE DEMOCRATIC NOMINATION FOR VICE-PRESIDENT.

Hearly Endorsement of Mr. Cleveland's Presentation of the Issues-Victors

Character of the Force Bill. Adlai E. Stevenson, Democratic candidate for the vice-presidency, has sent the following letter of acceptance to the president of the National Democratic Conven-

CHARLESTON, W. VA., October 29, 18 2. To the Hon. William L. Wilson, Chairma

When, in the presence of 20,000 of my countrymen, I accepted the honor conferred upon me by the convention, over which you presided, I promised to indicate by letter, in a more formal manner, my acceptance of the nomination tendered me by the assembled representatives of the Democratic party of the United States. Since that time I have been engaged continually in the discussion, before the people of many States of the Union of the issues emphasized by the convention and represented by our candidate for President, Grover Cleveland. Opportunity has thus been defined me to write with the care I would like the more formal answer promised to your committee.

CLEVELAND'S POSITION ENDORSED.

CLEVELAND'S POSITION ENDORSED.

The full discussion of public questions commonly expected from a candidate for Vice-President has been rendered less imperative by the complete presentation of the Democratic creed by the gentleman with whom I have the honor to be associated as a candidate on the national ticket. His treatment of the issues now before the country for discussion and settlement was so complete that I can do little more than endorse his position and give emphasis of my unqualified approval.

The greatest power conferred upon human government is that of taxation. All the great struggles of the past for a broader political liberty have looked toward the limitation of this power by right to tax—a right which should always be limited by the necessities of government—and to benefits which may be shared by all. Whenever this power is used to draw tribute from the many for the benefit of the few, or when part of the people are oppressed in order that the remainder may prosper unduly, equality is lost sight of, injustice hardens into precedent, which is used to excuse new exactions, and there arise artificial distinctions which the beneficiaries come to look upon in due time as vested rights, sacred to themselves. ficiaries come to look upon in due time as vested rights, sacred to themselves.

OUR TARIFF SYSTEM INEQUITABLE. OUR TARIFF SYSTEM INEQUITABLE.

It is plain that our present inequitable system of tariff taxation has promoted the growth of such conditions in our land, favored though it has been by an industrious and enterprising people, a friendly climate, a productive soil, and the highest development of political liberty. If the beneficiaries of this system shall be able to add a new tenure of power to those they have already enjoyed, the development of these unfavorable conditions must continue until the power to tax will be lodged in those who are willing and able to pay for the perpetuation of privileges originally conferred by a confiding people for the preservation inviolate of their own government. There is no longer pretext There is no longer pretext nment. There is no longer pretext cuse for the maintenance of war tariff or excuse for the maintenance or wartarin in times of peace, and more than a quarter of a century after armed conflict has ceased. The platform of the National Democratic Convention demands the reform of this system and the adoption in its place of one which will insure equality to all our people. I am in full and hearty accord with these purposes.

THE MONET QUESTION.

The convention also declared its position on the currency question in no unmeaning words when it said in its platform: "We hold to the use of both gold and silver as the standard money of the country, and to the comage or both gold and silver without discriminating against either metal or charge for mintage, but the dollar unit of comage of both metals must be of equal intrinsic and exchangeable value, or be adjusted through international agreement, or by such safeguards of legislation as shall insure the purity of the two metals and the equal power of every dollar at all times in the markets and in payment of debt, and we demand that all paper currency shall be kept at par with and redeemable in such coin."

To this plan and unequivocal declaration in favor of sound, honest money, I subscribe without reservation or qualification. A safe circulating medium is absolutely essential to the protection of the business interests of our country, while to the wage-carner or the farmer it is all important that every dollar, whatever its form. THE MONET QUESTION.

wage-earner or the farmer it is all impor-tant that every dollar, whatever its form, that finds its way into his pocket shall be of equal, unquestioned, and universally-exchangeable value, and of equal purchasing power.

THE FORCE BILL. Another issue of great moment in the pending contest is the force bill, the magnitude of which cannot be overstated. It may mean the control of the election of representatives in Congress by the bayonet. The Republican party, by its acts in the Fifty-first Congress, and by its platform in its late national convention, stands pledged to the passage of this bill. That it will pass it when it has the power no sane man can doubt. To all our people who desire the peace and prosperity of our common country this question is allour common country this question is all important.

Since my nomination I have been in eight of the southern and southwestern States of the Union and have talked with men of all classes and conditions there. I found a general and growing apprehension of evils which it is believed would result from the passage of the Lodge bill or similar threatened legislation, I found the industries established by northern capital during Mr. Cleveland's administration in a languishing condition; that the capital during Mr. Cleveland's administra-tion in a languishing condition; that the immigration of labor and the investment of capital invited to those States by their then peaceful condition had in a large measure ceased. The enactment of the force bill into a law, while it would threaten the liberties of the entire people, would undoubtedly retard the material growth of the States at which it is suecial. would undoubtedly retard the material growth of the States at which it is specially aimed, would incite in many communities race troubles, and invite retaliatory legislation, which would disturb property values and discontinue and destroy the security of northern investments. And its reflex action upon the northern States would result in a consequent loss of commercial and trade relations with the vast territory now becoming tributary to their wealth and prosperity.

A REVOLUTIONARY MEASURE.

I say nothing of the inherent vice of the namerican and revolutionary spirit involved in the Lodge bill, which was pronounced by a Republican senator "the most infamous that ever crossed the threshold of the Senate." I appeal to the instinct of self-interest and to the sense of common justice in the American people. threshold of the Senste." I appeal to the instinct of self-interest and to the sense of common justice in the American people. The era of good feeling and renewed commercial relations commencing with the election of Mr. Cleveland in 1884 should not be interrupted by the inauguration of a policy which tends to destroy popular representation and the purity of local self-government, which furnishes an instrument to discredited Federal power to perpetuate itself, which seeks to keep alive sectional jealousies and strife, which threatens important and material interests, and which offers no excuse or palliation for its existence except the perpetuation in power of a political party which has lost public confidence.

I accept the nomination tendered me, and should the action of the convention meet the approval of my countrymen will to the best of my ability discharge with fidelity the duties of the important trust confided to me.

Very respectfully,

ADLAI E. STEVENSON.

SERVICES INTERRUPTED BY FIRE. An Alarm of Fire Breaks Up a Congre gation-Damage by Flames Slight.

[Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.]

Emronia, Va., October 31.—On yester, day Rev. Mr. Davis, who has been in attendance upon the Presbyterian Synod in Petersburg, came over by request and preached for our people. The Baptists kindly tendered their house of worship and the reverend gentleman preached a fine sermon. He also announced an appointment for service in the evening. The congregation had assembled and some of the services had been gone through with, when the alarm of fire was given, and it was ascertained that the residence of our townsman, W. E. Bailey, was on fire. Mr. Bailey quickly left the church, the congregation quietly dispersed, and but for the heroic efforts of our citizens, his fine new residence would now be in ashes. We have no fire organization, and have to depend on the bucket brigade. Owing to the dry spell there was a scarcity of water in the wells. The fire started in the coal-house. The kitchen sand smoke-house caught once or twice, but the dweiling was not injured in the least.

CENTENNIAL OF MISSIONS.

Interesting Church Subjects Discussed by the Ministers and Laymen.

(Correspondence of the Richmond Discarch.)

Chewr. V.L. October 31.—The centennial of missions in connection with the ministers' and laymen's meeting of the Concord Association, was held in the Baptist church here yesterday and faturday. There were a number of prominent ministers present, also several laymen from this district. Saturday morning the subject under discussion was: "How May Such a Spirit of Liberality Be Developed that Every Member of Every Church Shall Contribute Something to the Lord's Cause?" This was very ably handled by Rev. R. W. Cridlin, of the Southside Institute, Burkeville; G. Y. Bradley, of Branswick county, and Mr. H. H. Seay, of Blackstone.

The second subject, "What are the advantages, if any, to the Church and its ministers in securing regular evancelists rather than brother pastors to aid in protracted services?" was discussed by Mr. J. W. Jones, Rev. J. M. Pilcher, D. D., and Professor Cridlin.

The subject for the evening, "How may our pastorless churches be supphed, and those heretofore asking aid of the State Mission Board be made self-sustaining?" was clearly argued by Mr. H. H. Seay and Rev. J. M. Pilcher.

THE CENTENNIAL MOVEMENT.

Sunday morning, after several short talks to the Sunday school, the "centennial movement" was discoursed upon by Rev. George Y. Bradley. The afternoon was occupied by Rev. A. E. Dickinson, of the Religious Ervaid, who gave a good talk upon the theme "Will the Heathen Be Saved Without the Gospel, or We Be Saved Without Sending Them the Gospel?" The closing services last evening were made quite interesting by a thorough discussion of the question "Are We Missionary People?" by Mr. Pilcher and Mr. Biadley. Other important tonics were briefly remarked on. A very handsome donation was made this church by Rev. A. E. Dickenson to enable them to distribute gratis a little pamphlet of which he is the author. SKIES IN NOVEMBER.

A BRILLIANT DISPLAY OF METEORS MAY BE EXPECTED.

An Eclipse of the Moon ; Will Not Be Vistble in This Latitude-Movements of the Planets During the Month.

November is always conspicuous for one thing, so that if there are no other very marked phenomena we are always sure of having one distinctive feature, and that is the meteors. The earth in November will surely plunge through the great meteor zone that lies in her pathway about the 14th, and meteors will be seen on the nights of the 13th, 14th, and 15th, says the 13th, and meteors will be seen on the nights of the 13th, 14th, and 15th, says the New York Times, though no one can tell beforehand whether a more brilliant display than usual will reward the patient watch of the observer, or whether the falling stars will be few and far botween.

Every year brings us one step nearer the expected epoch when the meteors in November will fall like the raindrops in a tropical storm and the heavens will seem to be on fire. The year 1899 is set for this grand celestial illumination, and 'tis not so very far away. Each succeeding year between now and then may show us an increasing pyrotechnic display. It is thought that in course of time, instead of a number of years elapsing between successive meteoric showers, there will be a display well worthy our admiration each year.

The meteors are technically known as Leonids, because the point from which they seem to radiate is in the constellation of the Lion, which is known astronomically as Leo, and are easily distinguished from other groups. They move swiftly, are characterized by a greenish or bluish tint, while the trains they leave behind are brilliant and remain for some seconds. The best time to look for Leonids is about 3 o'clock in the morning, when Leo is well above the horizon, though they may be seen at any time during the night.

EMANTIC HISTORY.

ROMANTIC HISTORY.

The Leonids have a romantic history. It has been proved that in the year 126 of our era Temple's comet came very near Uranus, which turned the comet from its course and imprisoned it in our system. It has ever since continued to revolve in the orbit in which it was compelled to move by a resistless power, the perihelion resting on the earth's orbit and the aphelion reaching beyond the orbit of Uranus. The comet reaches the earth's crossing place once in thirty-three and a quarter years, and then the great meteoric showers occur. In the case of the Leonids the meteor swarm follows the comet. Many astronomers believe that the comet itself is the thickest part of the swarm, and that the meteor swarms are simply the debris of the comet.

With a speed considerably lessened from With a speed considerably lessened from the brisk pace taken in October, the sun is journeying on toward the winter solatice, his motion in declination at the close of November being only half what it is at present. The decreasing foliage warns us that winter is approaching, and that snows and frosts are to be endured before we again have Old Sol on our side the line. The radiance of these autumn twilight evenings and their golden setting, the ever-varying lights and shadows, the magnificent coloring of the leaves, all produce a halo of wonderful beauty that belongs to no other season of the year.

magnificent coloring of the leaves, all produce a halo of wonderful beauty that belongs to no other season of the year.

November also contains as an interesting celestial phenomenon an eclipse of the moon, the last event of the kind for the year; but, unfortunately, we are not allowed to see it in this latitude. It is all the more interesting from the fact of its being a total eclipse. It is beginning will be visible generally in the northwest portion of North America, the Pacific Ocean, Asia, and the easterly portions of Europe, while the termination of the spectacle will be seen in the northwest Pacific Ocean, Australia, Asia, Europe except England and Spain), and the east portions of Africa.

The event takes place on the day of full moon, which is when the earth is in line with sun and moon and between the two, so that it forms a shadow into which the moon moves and so loses its light from the sun. Full moon occurs on the 4th, and although no new developments are expected, a description of the coloring of the moon's disk is always of interest. The phase of the last quarter of the moon occurs on the 19th, and the first quarter, on the 2th, the first of the monthly linar conjunctions is with Jupiter, on the 2d, and were it not that the moon is so near the full we should have a rare treat, as the planet is so large and beautiful and the two are so very close together. Still, if the night prove fine we shall find ourselves taking a second look at the picture. Neptune has his visit on the 6th, but fails to give us any particular pleasure, as he is so far away and so very hard to determine. Saturn, just after the day of last quartering, will offer something worthy of an encore, as the waning crescent and the pianet are very close to one another.

AN ATTRACTIVE NUMBER.

AN ATTRACTIVE NUMBER.

The most attractive number on the programme will be on the 15th, in which Venus and Luna are the star performers. Less than a quarter of a degree will separate the two, and as the moon 1s about half-way between the third quarter and the new the size of her disk will not be sufficient to interfere. On the 17th Uranus and the moon are at their closest for the month. Mercury follows, and then Mars, the last on the 29th; but not one of the three will be of any particular interest to us. Jupiter's turn comes once more, about midnight on the 29th, and atthough the meeting is not quite so close as the one earlier in the month it promises to be most inviting.

most inviting, Venus still reigns triumphant in the venus still reigns triumphant in the morning skies and shines most gloriously some hours before sun-up. She is drawing altogether too close to the sun, and it will not be long before we shall crase to see her beautiful face. The eclipse, however, will result in our having to gaze upon her at a more favorable time, for her disappearance as a morning plant means that will result in our having to gaze upon her at a more favorable time, for her disappearance as a morning planet means that when she comes back to us it will be as queen of the evening skies. She is at present in the constellation of the Lion, and the wonderful meteors that have been mentioned may be taken as rays of dazzling brilliancy emanating from the fairest of all the planets.

Jupiter is quite the most interesting of the evening planets, and although he is drifting slowly away and his diameter is steadily decreasing, his bright disk sparkles in the heavenly vault, rendering him very easy to distinguish from his surroundings. His two meetings with the moon—the one on the 2d and the other on the 29th—are rather remarkable on account of the close proximity in which the two will find themselves upon both occasions, so if we miss the first night we can promise our-themselves upon both occasions, so if we miss the first night we can promise ourselves that the second will be equally worth looking out for.

Saturn is coming is coming out from his long retreat and is again sttracting the attention of those whose early rising admits of their taking in some of the most interesting of the tableaux recorded on the monthly bulletin. He is gradually drawing away from the sun, and when we find him next year ranged among the evening twinklers he will be larger and more brilliant than we at present see him. He is in the constellation of the Virgin at present.

VOLATILE MERCURY.

the constellation of the Virgin at present.

Volatile Mercury.

Mercury reaches his greatest eastern elongation on the 23d. This means that he is at his point of greatest distance from the sun during this period of his swinging around the circle. Every now and then Mercury bobs up serenely, and we are somewhat surprised to see him, and often wonder why we have not seen him in apparently the same place night after night, as we do the other planets. His volatile disposition evidently needs closer watching than that of the other members of the solar family—so Old Sol keeps him close under the paternal wing and only occasionally allows him to wander far enough from home to be seen by mankind. A night or two only are we allowed to see him, for the old man pulls the string and away goes Mercury toward the sun, keeping up his pace until he reaches the end of his tether on the other side of the sun, when he gets another pull, and back he comes again. When at the end of his western trip he can be seen about as long in the morning sky as we now see him in the evening twilight.

Mars we find bearing south, as he reaches our meridian, at about 7 o'clock in the evening, but, not having proved the great success as advertised, he is getting away from us as rapidly as possible, and has already shrunk to less than half the size he was at the time we were trying to find out all about his canal system and other wonderful features. His cheery ruddiness still clings to him and his identity is quite easily determined, but for the present his glory has departed, and those who would disclose the secrets of this wonderful plauet must now content themselves as best they may and wait with patience the developments that they confidently believe will follow when he is again favorably situated for observation.

Uranus and Neptune keep so far from the powers of our unaided vision that what we are actually permitted to see, as the less-distant planets more about among the stars, can perhaps well be imagined, but where everything is left to ou distant bodies marks some of the most wonderful feats in astronomical science, and the fact that they never come fairly within range of our natural vision must ever be regarded as among the great dis-

November 8th.

It dies—the monster that with lifted paw Has frowned upon us since the civil war; Its groan is heard in this the wee small hour That brings us near to Cleveland and to power Immortal Hope unsheathes her fairy lance And Joy from out the depths leaps forth to dance.

Republican, thy name with blood is red And teems with ghostly spectres of the dead. The force bill, serpent offspring of that name, Has darted forth a tongue of lurid flame. What horrid dreams it conjures up, this bill of bristling heyonets upon the bill.

Of Eghtling hand to hand and breath to breath We hurl aside the body of this death.

of bristling bayonets upon the hid.
Of fighting hand to hand and breath to breath!
We hurl aside the body of this death.
The robber tariff, son and heir most dear.
Devours the poor man's bread and drinks his tear.
The rich man tampers with the poor man's food;
Grows richer; says the government is good.
Such partiots dread not war, nor strife, nor hate,
For they hire substitutes and speculate.
Republican, a crown of thorfs you place
Upon the farmer's brow with Judas grace;
"Protection" crucifies the sons of toil
And millionaires spring up from out the spoil.
We strike this haunted paiace, fool and fair,
Built on the sleepers of our own despair.
The song-birds come, the vultures fly away,
The innsie of the supheres is now our lay.
The masse of the supheres is now our lay.
The ion and the lamb together play,
Across this broad land that November day,
When nations rise and smillingly shall say;
Crown Cleveland President with golden wheat
And shroud the prostrate monster at his feet.

FIFTY YEARS SETTLES IT! CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED.

If Dr. Schenck's treatment and cure of Con-sumption were semething new and untried, peo-ple might doubt; but what has proved itself through a record as old as our grandfathers, means just what it is— A Specific for Consumption and for all diseases of the Lungs. No treatment in the world can place as many permanent cures of consumption to its credit as D. Schenck's Nothing in nature acts so directly and effectively on the lung membrane; and tissues, and squickly disposes of tubercles, congestion, inflammation, colds, coughs, and all the seeds of consumption as DR. SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP

Whon all else fails it comes to the rescue. Not until it fails, and only after faithful trial should any one despond. It has brought the hopeless to the and health. It has turned the despair of 10,000 homes into joy. It is doing it now. It will continue to do it throughout the ages. "Dr. Schenck's Practical Treatice on Consumption. Liver and Stomach Disonses" mailed tree to all applicants. DR. J. H. SCHENCK & SON,

The stomach can deal with a drop when it cannot deal with a spoonful.

Scott's Emulsion is codliver oil brokén up into drops invisibly small; each separate drop is wrapped in glycerine so that the taste is lost.

This is why Scott's Emulsion is the easy and effectual form of cod-liver oil. Hypophosphites of lime and soda combine in tonic effect with the half-digested oil. Let us send you a book on it; free.

Given under my hand this 11th day of Octo er, 1892. WILLIAM M. TURPIN, Scort & Bowin, Chemists, 132 South 5th Avenue, New York. Your druggist keeps Scott's Emulsion of cod-liver oil—all druggists everywhere do. $1.

To enjoy health one should have reg-ular evacuations every twen y four hours. The evils, both mental and physical, resulting from HABITUAL CONSTIPATION are many and serious. For the cure of this common trouble, Tutt's Liver Pills have gained a popularity unpar-alloled. Elegantly sugar coated. SOLD EVERYWHERE.
